The original sidewalks of San Clemente were likely built between 1926 and 1928, and were part of the City's original infrastructure gifted to the people of San Clemente by Ole Hanson. The sidewalks appear eligible as contributors to a potential National Register district under Criterion A for their association with the Ole Hanson/Spanish Village by the Sea period of development. They also appear eligible at the local level as contributors to a potential historic district. They are recommended for addition to the Historic Structures List.
